Correction:

In MERIP Reports #124, Women and Labor Migration, several misprints occurred in Elizabeth Taylor's article, "Egyptian Migration and Peasant Wives." On page four, paragraph one: Egyptian migrant workers accounted for 70 (not seven) percent of the Jordanian migrant labor market. In the third paragraph: 50 (not five) percent of households in some villages have members working abroad. On page five, line two: Dahshur's lands were replenished by the silt of the annual Nile flood; since the High Dam went into operation, there is no annual flood.

In MERIP Reports #125/6, the author of the review of the books on Syria on pages 60-2 was Philip Khoury.
